

MYTH #3

When a woman says
"No" she is just playing hard to get.

FACT

If a woman says "no" it should never be assumed that it means anything else. In order for both parties to feel comfortable and in control, assumptions should never be made. A man may feel he is getting mixed messages but that is not an excuse for sexual assault. If it is unclear what their partner wants, communication is the only way to make sure both people feel safe & comfortable with what is happening. It is the responsibility of the person initiating the sexual contact to obtain consent and not interpret what is said any other way. Consent is sweet. Sexual assault is not.

Source: <http://www.calgarycasa.com/resources/sexual-assault-myths/>

The Consent Awareness & Sexual Education Club
www.ucalgarycase.ca facebook.com/ucalgarycase